

LEAP Winter Quarter
Newsletter
Issue 1
January 9, 2011

The Week in LEAP

The Arts and Crafts Club created Swedish holiday decorations during Winter Break.

LEAP Welcome Party

Conversation Hour kicked off on Friday with the Welcome Party. Students and teachers gathered in the Millett Hall Atrium to enjoy hot chocolate, games, prizes, and friendship.

Welcome to Winter Quarter LEAP

Winter Quarter is the perfect time to study English at Wright State University. The new year is off to a great start with over 100 students from around the world attending LEAP classes. Some of the new students had their first encounter with snow this week!

Wright State and LEAP offer plenty of activities to keep students busy during the cold winter months. Look for announcements in each issue of The Week in LEAP to find opportunities to help you with your studies or have fun after a day of classes and homework.

*Come to Conversation
Hour on Friday to practice speaking with friends from university classes and LEAP.*

Special Announcements

Did you get registered?

It's important to be officially registered for your classes. Registration affects your visa status and your ability to participate in your classes and other programs at Wright State. If you have not registered for your LEAP classes, please do it immediately to avoid late fees and other problems.

Meet The Students

Qadiyyah, Memo, Muhanna, Salem, and Ammar

Qadiyyah, Memo, Muhanna, Salem, and Ammar are cousins. They are from Najran City, Saudi Arabia and they are all studying in LEAP this quarter.

Qadiyyah, Level 1, plans to study mechanical engineering. When he's not studying, he likes to play soccer.

Memo's, Level 1, real name is Mohammed, but he says, "You can call me 'Memo.'" His major is biomedical engineering and he likes to dance.

Salem, also Level 1, wants to be an electrical engineer. When he's not busy learning English, he likes to play soccer.

Ammar, Level 2, wants to study petroleum engineering. He likes dancing, playing soccer, and eating good food.

Muhanna, Level 3, began in LEAP last year. He plans to study petroleum engineering. You won't believe this: he likes snow. His favorite day of the week is Friday because he likes to say, "TGIF!"

Join The LEAP on Facebook to see pictures of past events and get the latest announcements.

Search: The LEAP-Wright State University to find the page.

Conversation Hours

Attending Conversation Hour is a great way to relax and visit with friends and teachers. You can enjoy refreshments, meet students from other Wright State programs, learn about cultural and holiday events, and get ready for the weekend. See you there!

See you at Conversation Hour
this week on
Friday January 14 at 12:15 in 206 Fawcett Hall!

Jeannette wants to help you stay organized. She has free, gently used binders in her office and you are welcome to take one for your classes.