Proud to be an ABET-Accredited Business Information Systems Program

Our Bachelor of Science program in Management Information Systems (MIS) has just been recognized as the first Ohio business school and one of the few in the nation to be accredited by ABET, Inc. – The Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology.

You Should Be Proud, Too.

Achieving the quality standards of ABET's Computing Accreditation Commission means that:

- Our MIS students are ready to practice as soon as they graduate
- Local and global employers can count on our MIS graduates to meet their needs
- Parents of our students can be proud and confident that the MIS education their sons and daughters receive is time and money well-spent

The Raj Soin College of Business is also first in the region to be accredited by AACSB International – The Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business. Only one in three business colleges in the nation achieve the quality standards of the world's highest accrediting body for business.

When you choose an accredited program, you are choosing wisely. ABET Accreditation not only assures that our program has met the quality standards of the IS profession, it is an important commitment to the continuous improvement of our already outstanding MIS program.
