

Living Laboratory Residents

The Techy family reside in the Living Laboratory House, a state-of-the-art medical teaching and training facility. Through the use of life-like simulators like Andy, Beth, Nat, Josie, Baby Patrick and Grandpa George, medical professionals and care-givers can observe and learn how to use the latest in medical care technology to assist their patients and loved ones to live independently as long as possible.

Andy, Beth, Josie, and Grandpa George

Family Medical Profiles

Andy is a Flight Commander in the Air Force.
Andy is in good health

Beth is a civilian Nurse Practitioner
Who is recovering from extensive surgery and takes pain medication every four hours. Because her medication is a controlled substance, Beth must use monitoring devices to regulate her doses and to remind her when Each dose is to be taken.

Josie is undergoing cancer treatment. She frequently requires rehydration due to complications from her treatment. Grandpa George has been recently released from the VA hospital after suffering a stroke.

Nat, the athlete of the family, recently sustained a head injury in a hockey game, but with rest and good care, he'll be back on the ice in no time.

Baby Patrick is in excellent health

Techy Photo Gallery

Josie during her treatments

Nat resting in his room

Since his stroke, Grandpa needs more rest

Hugs for Grandpa

