

Mariahadessa Ekere Tallie

Public Reading

Thursday, March 28
at 2:00pm
Millett Hall Atrium

A poet who “refuses to tiptoe,” she enters and exits the page sometimes with short concise imagery, sometimes in the arms of delicate memoir. Her words pull the forgotten among us back into the lightning of our eyes.” -Nikky Finney

Sponsored By:

English Department Creative Writing Programs Committee, Bolinga Black Cultural Resources Center, Women's Center, Women's Studies Program, and African and African American Studies Program