B. Earned Media (Slides 3 - 5)
   a. Slide 3 shows the amount of positive and negative Earned Media, the relative publicity gained through news stories and promotional efforts other than paid media advertising, for FY17, FY18, and FY19.
   b. Positive earned media has seen a steady rise thanks in-part to faculty members featured on prominent television programs and to WSU athletics post-season performance. News articles covering various aspects of the faculty strike account for 90% of the recent negative earned media.

   President Schrader highlighted several current and planned opportunities to come together and repair relationships:
• Small group dialogues – the University will be inviting Faculty, Staff, and Administrators to small group discussions to foster dialogue and communication

Q&A Summary

The following is a summary of questions, concerns, and subsequent responses during the Q&A session:

• Concerns were raised regarding negative media and impact on administrative searches.
  o President Schrader indicated that most candidates are not skittish with regards to the past strike and university financials • Encouragement for a high bar of excellence with regards to administrative searches. Install new leaders, not fill positions.
  o President Schrader agreed with the expressed sentiments.
• Does positive press due to Athletics correspond with enrollment and ticket sales?
President Schrader indicated that Athletics do help in these areas and that she will get data for a future discussion.

- Concerns were raised over the focus on the strike as the only or primary negative issue when there have been several non-strike examples of negative press.
  - President Schrader indicated that the Dayton Daily News’ extensive coverage, with regards to strike related unrest, accounted for over 90% of the recent negative earned media. Along with a declining population of high school graduates, this corresponds to roughly the period when the university lost enrollment from Raider Country which includes the majority of the DDN distribution area.
  - Concerns were raised that the strike, and resulting negative coverage, is not the sole fault of the faculty and that administration and Board of Trustees’ has shared ownership of the issue.
    - President Schrader agreed with the sentiments.
- A question was raised over the methodology of the earned media reports.
  - President Schrader indicated that they are coordinated by Seth Bauguess, Director of Communications, and performed by a third party.
- A concern was raised about mixed messages with regards to Athletics, “right-size enrollment”, and decline in supported research.
  - Provost Edwards indicated that there needs to be a focus on undergraduate to graduate pipelines, which does not necessarily mean defunding research. Provost Edwards also indicated that Athletics, along with everything else, is on the table.
- A question was raised regarding the status of the academic reorganization.
  - Provost Edwards indicated that a previous committee report was issued but never followed-up on, and that a new working group will convene with affected units in the near future.

Provost Edwards

   b. First time Freshman: 1,690 (21% reduction from Fall 2018)
   c. Transfer: 733 (11% reduction from Fall 2018)

iii. Lake Campus – search to be scheduled this Fall
iv. College of Engineering and Computer Science – internal search will proceed this fall

C. Program Review

https://www.wright.edu/academic-affairs/academic-program-review

a. Provost Edwards expressed that program review, which is required by the Higher Learning Commission, presents an opportunity for an introspective review to highlight areas of potential program growth, rather than an opportunity to cut programs.

Q&A Summary

The following is a summary of questions, concerns, and subsequent responses during the Q&A session:

- A concern was raised regarding follow-up of issues surrounding a CoLA Senate vote of no confidence in the CoLA Dean and Associate Dean during AY2018-19.
  - Provost Edwards indicated that she received several faculty concerns over the nature of the vote, has had conversations with the Dean regarding how to move forward, and will re-assess the situation as we move forward.

- A question was raised regarding the impact of the updated enrollment figures on the budget.
  - [Audio of response is unclear] Walt Branson indicated that the university budgeted for a 16% decline and every improvement of 1% roughly equates to $1 million. So if the 11.7% figure holds, then it will roughly equate to $3.5 – 5 million in savings against the original budgeted figure. However, there are expenses and scholarship offsets to also account for.

- A concern was raised over the use of outside consults rather than insourcing among the faculty.
  - President Schrader expressed that it seemed necessary, and has been valuable so far, for the Chief Diversity Officer search (soon to be re-named due to consultant recommendation). The university has also been consulting with faculty on other projects, such as RSCoB’s Department of Marketing working with the University’s Communication and Marketing departments.

- A concern was raised regarding the need for a leadership search in the College of Nursing and Health.
o Provost Edwards indicated that a group from CONH will be meeting with the academic reorganization group to discuss the next steps as we continue to move towards a combined health college.

- Additional concerns were raised regarding Athletics
  - President Schrader indicated that the Athletics budget has been decreasing over the last few years
- A question was raised regarding the Student Government proposed recreation facility.
  - President Schrader indicated that there have not been discussions about the proposal at the Board of Trustees’ meetings.
