

BEHOLD THE MYSTIC SYMBOL

Words: John H. Lozier, DePauw 1857

Music: Louis Bourgeois

♩=90 Arr: Shelby L. Molter, Miami '54

1                      2                      3

Thus                      heart                      to                      heart                      and                      hand                      to                      hand,                      Each Haste                      thee,                      oh                      The-                      ta's                      gold-                      en                      age                      Of
Be-                      hold,                      at                      last                      the                      sym-                      bol                      mete                      That

4                      5                      6

oth-                      er's                      joy                      and                      grief                      to                      share                      Be-                      hold                      how                      Be-                      ta cul-                      tured                      thought                      with                      let-                      tered                      brain,                      Hail                      blood-                      less                      con-                      querbinds                      our                      hearts                      with                      mys-                      tic                      tie,                      Thus                      Woog-                      lin's                      leg-                      end

7                      8                      9

broth-                      ers                      stand,                      And                      read                      our                      mys-                      tic                      sym-                      bol                      there.
or                      and                      sage,                      Mon-                      arch                      of                      mind,                      for-                      ev-                      er                      reign.
stands                      com-                      plete,                      Be-                      ta                      to                      The-                      ta                      linked                      with                      Pi.

Melody: Old 100th (Praise God from Whom all Blessings Flow)