

As required by the U.S. Department of Education, the Office of Financial Aid assigns a cost of attendance (COA) budget when offering financial aid. The COA includes allowances for tuition, books, housing and board, transportation, and personal expenses. If you will incur additional expenses as the result of a WSU-affiliated study abroad program and wish to be considered for a cost of attendance increase, complete this form and include documentation to support your additional costs.

Please note: An increase in your COA may not result in a change to your financial aid offer; it will depend on the type and amount of each offer. In most cases, the increased COA allows a student to borrow an alternative loan. For a dependent student, a COA increase allows a parent to borrow additional parent PLUS loan funds.

Documentation to Support Additional Costs table with columns: Study Abroad Program Type, Requested Documentation. Rows include Ambassador Program, Exchange Program, and Third-Party Program.

Complete and submit this form to Enrollment Services with all supporting documentation no later than April 1, 2025. Students are encouraged to log into their WINGS account to monitor the COA processing status, which may include requests for additional documentation and/or the ability to view any adjustments made to your financial aid.
