Policy Information

Academic Honesty

Wright State's Academic Integrity Standards and Process for Misconduct apply to all students. You will be asked to acknowledge this policy when you begin the assessment. The consequences of misconduct may be serious. When you take the writing assessment you may use the tools that your word processor supplies such as spell check, but do not get help from the Internet, other people, or AIs. Using ChatGPT or other such technology falls under the academic integrity policy. Bear in mind that the writing assessment is not a test—you can't fail it—but a way of assigning you to the most useful class.

How long are scores valid?

- Standardized test scores (ACT and SAT) are valid for two years.
- Readmitted students with expired scores should take the Wright State Writing Placement Assessment unless their prior placement was at ENG 1100 level.
- Wright State writing assessment is valid for two years
- College Credit Plus students who were assessed at least 12 months prior (1 full year) should contact testing_services@wright.edu to see if updated transcripts or additional documentation meets eligibility requirements for renewed assessment access.

Transfer Students

- Students may fulfill the Wright State Core writing requirement with previous college composition credit of a grade C or higher or posted AP credit for ENG 1100. If students have such credit, they need not take the writing placement assessment.
- Transfer students who do not have transfer credit for an equivalent Wright State English course should determine placement by the highest of the following criteria: HS GPA in student's admission record, valid non-expired standardized test scores (ACT or SAT), or by taking the Wright State Writing Placement Assessment.

Reassessment

- Wright State writing placement assessment scores are final. There is no retest before the two-year expiration date, at which time the student may be reassessed. If they previously placed into ENG 1100, there is no need for reassessment.
- Students in ENG 1030 and ENG 1100 ESL sections will take a diagnostic activity on the first day of class to verify placement.

Remediation-Free Standards

- Students with valid non-expired ACT English scores of 18 (or above) or SAT Reading/Writing scores of 490 (or above) cannot be placed in DEV 0100 (Dayton Campus) or DEV 0920 (Lake Campus) due to state remediation-free standards.
