•Senate Challenge will reduce the cost of tuition at all public universities by five percent in AY2016-17.

SPGB Classroom Modernization Project

Tom Gates and Elle Miller, SPGB Architects, presented before the Faculty Senate on the progress, scope, and priorities of the Classroom Modernization Project. The project's budget is $5 million, with $3.9 million of that going towards construction. The design team will create prototype classrooms in both Oelman Hall and Russ Engineering. The classrooms will be designed for active learning. Different layouts will be used throughout the year and feedback will be gathered from students and instructors. SPGB will use the feedback to provide Wright State with designs that best meet the needs of faculty and students.

Executive Committee Report

Gender Based Violence Task Force Policy

A draft of the Gender-Based Violence Task Force Policy is under review by the Executive Committee. The policy has been revised to ensure that Wright State is in compliance with government requirements. This is going to be a Wright-Way and not a Senate policy so the Executive Committee will provide feedback only.

MDA Service Reviews

During the Feb. 3 Faculty Senate meeting, the Executive Committee recommended three service units to be prioritized for review: Enrollment Management, Human Resources and the Bookstores. The Senate will participate in review of these three different units to ensure that each unit is aligned with the Senate Resolution on Mission Driven Allocation as well as identify issues in those units, and then develop recommendations based on any issues. A Senate representative has been identified for two of the three first reviews: Fred Garber (CECS) will serve on the review team for Enrollment Management, and Melissa Gruys (RSCoB) for Human Resources. A Senate representative is still needed for the bookstore.

Software Licensing

CIO Craig Wooley reported to the Executive Committee on a new process to make licensed software easily accessible for faculty for their office computers. This new process allows faculty to easily download software, including Adobe Suite and a number of statistical packages, at their convenience. Because licenses are limited, CaTS will track software usage and follow up with faculty who install software but do not use it. Faculty, who are not on the Wright State domain, which already tracks usage, mainly CECS faculty, will need to install a device allowing usage tracking in order to install the software. The Executive Committee expressed concern about faculty members not understanding that usage will be monitored.

Early Alert System

An early alert system is being implemented to help improve advising and student success; it has already been successfully implemented by Athletics. The system allows professors to flag a student who is struggling in a class, with reports going to academic advisors. The Executive Committee notes that Athletics has existing processes in place to address struggling athletes believes that unless faculty are assured that there will be similar follow-up with students in the general population they will not elect to participate in Early Alert.

Athletics Council

The Athletics Council has revised its bylaws, reducing the number of Faculty Senate representatives to one. Athletics Council claims it can do so because it reports to the President and is not under the authority of the Senate. The Senate Executive Committee notes that the Faculty Constitution lists Athletic Council among the Councils constituted under Senate authority, but that the history of the relationship between the two bodies has been debated repeatedly and is not clear. The Executive Committee has requested clarification from President Hopkins.

February Business

Undergraduate Academic Policies (UAPC)

Proposed policies on Prior Learning Assessment and Non-contact Credit were approved. Revisions to the Undergraduate Admissions Policy to include specific language about English language proficiency for international students were approved as well as a minor revision to the undergraduate grading policy to remove grades that no longer exist. New admissions standards for the Athletic Training program in CEHS were approved for implementation Summer 2016. The Ad Hoc General Education Core Review Committee's Report and Recommendations were tabled. The committee will be reformed Fall 2015 to address assessment and to collect and review data on student access and success in the current Wright State Core.

International Programs

The Senate voted to accept the Report and Recommendation of the Undergraduate Academic Policies Committee regarding language proficiency requirements for admissions of undergraduate international students. The key recommendations included reviewing the minimum standards and test score requirements for international student admissions. The Senate also voted to accept the combined report of the UAPC and the Graduate Policies Committee regarding international programs. Recommendations addressed the need for more careful, faculty-driven, oversight of international programming, guidelines for program approval and assessment and the creation of a faculty committee charged with oversight of international academic programs. The goal is to ensure that these programs meet university and program standards. The relevant Senate committees will take up implementation questions during the 2015-16 academic year.

Ad Hoc Graduate Student Success Committee Report

The Senate voted to accept the Ad Hoc Graduate Student Success Committee's Report and Recommendations. The report recommended changes English proficiency requirements for international graduate students requiring one semester of LEAP level 4 for all international graduate students admitted to the university. Additional recommendations addressed advising and acculturation needs of international students as well as training for faculty and staff who interact with international students. The relevant Senate committees will take up implementation questions during the 2015-16 academic year.

PhD in EE Proposal

The college of Engineering currently has a multi-discipline PhD program that includes mechanical, electrical and biomedical engineering. Because of the substantial growth of enrollment in the PhD in Electrical Engineering, the college is proposing to establish an independent PhD program in Electrical Engineering. At the meeting, Fred Garber (CECS) moved to suspend the rules and move the proposal to old business citing the timelessness of the document. The Faculty Senate unanimously voted to conditionally approve of the proposal pending a vote by Graduate Council later in the week.
