Delta Omega Lecturer:

James Gross, M.P.H.
Health Commissioner
Public Health – Dayton & Montgomery County

James Gross, M.P.H., serves on the voluntary faculty in the Master of Public Health program. Mr. Gross is retiring as health commissioner of Montgomery County this year. He has over 30 years of local public health experience and provides practical insights to the M.P.H. program and is a primary communication link between the Center for Global Health and the Miami Valley community. As chief executive officer of Public Health-Dayton & Montgomery County, he oversees approximately 75 public health programs, 275 employees and an annual budget of almost $32 million. He also holds executive level positions in numerous local organizations, including the Human Services Levy Council, the Family and Children First Council and the Community Health Centers of Greater Dayton. Mr. Gross has also served as assistant health commissioner and held management positions with the Regional Air Pollution Control Agency. He received his B.S. degree in earth science education from Wright State University in 1977 and was one of the first graduates of WSU's Master of Public Health program in 2005.

Jim is a member of the Gamma Alpha Chapter of the Delta Omega Honorary Society in Public Health at the Wright State University.

Refreshments will follow.
