CYBERSECURITY IN THE REAL WORLD
Thursday, March 19, 11:00am-12:00pm
366 Joshi

What you see in the news is only a piece of the real story.

Hear an expert discuss the daily cyber war and potential ramifications.

About the Speaker

Rob Fry is an accomplished executive, architect, inventor, and public speaker with 20+ years experience working with tech in an array of fields.

His professional background includes serving as Principal Architect at Yahoo and Principal Cloud Architect at Netflix, where he was a leader in moving their data center operations to AWS. In his current role, he oversees the product, engineering, and threat teams who specialize in developing tools for SOC operations, security automation, threat detection, data analytics, and more.

In his free time, he enjoys mentoring college students, working with universities on research, and guiding tech companies and startups through their growth and innovation phases as an active participant of boards and engineering steering teams.

Rob Fry
Vice President
Advanced Security Technology
at Sumo Logic