

4th Annual Wright State University Runkle Woods Symposium

November 19, 2021, 1:00 – 5:00 pm, Fawcett 101, in person

Also streamed on
<https://wright.webex.com/meet/volker.bahn>

Keynote

“Personal perspectives on the ever-changing WSU woods”

Jim Runkle, professor emeritus, biological sciences

Schedule – 101 Fawcett Hall and <https://wright.webex.com/meet/volker.bahn>

- 1:00 – 1:15 “Introductory remarks” Volker Bahn, Biological Sciences
- 1:15 – 1:45 “Personal perspectives on the ever-changing WSU woods”, Jim Runkle, Biological Sciences
- 1:45 – 2:00 “We can do Campus Recreation in The Woods!” Erin Sherrets, Outdoor Recreation
- 2:00 – 2:15 “The Role of the WSU Woods in Army ROTC Training”, Edward Wittig and Caleb Matos, ROTC
- 2:15 – 2:30 “Conservation of Archaeological Sites in the Wright State University Woods”, Lance Green, Sociology & Anthropology
- 2:30 – 2:45 “Water quality issues in the streams in the WSU Woods: an update”, Audrey McGowin, Chemistry
- 2:45 – 3:15 Break
- 3:15 – 3:30 “Biodiversity of the Wright State Woods through the seasons”, Don Cipollini, Biological Sciences
- 3:30 – 3:45 “The Colonization of invasive shrubs by native caterpillars”, John Stireman, Biological Sciences
- 3:45 – 4:00 “Autumn bees of the WSU prairie” Adam Foster, Biological Sciences
- 4:00 – 4:10 “Honey suckle management”, Matt Rusk, Rachel Seyler, Callie Owens, Mariah Slaughter, Conservation Biology
- 4:10 – 4:20 “Cleaning up the Wright State Woods”, Whitney White, Paige Dunham, Danielle Potter, Will Wiseman, Conservation Biology
- 4:20 – 4:30 “Invasive species inventory with focus on honey suckle”, Matt Magill, Sierra Walker, Paige Parrish, Victoria Fliehman, Conservation Biology
- 4:30 – 4:40 “Public education for conservation of the Wright State Woods”, Kristen Steinke, Ellie Fisk, Brandon Calvert, Carley Elliot, Conservation Biology
- 4:40 – 5:00 “‘Being’ in the Woods” Marie Thompson, Communication